TESTIMONY IN THOMAS DIVORCE SUIT

TERMINED IN TRIAL AT CHICAGO
TODAY IS UNPRINTABLE.

BLANDY THOMAS APPEARS

Court Room Looking as if She Had
Not a Single Friend in the Immense Crowd.

Chicago, March 18.—With a hunted apparently feeling that there was a friend in the crowd which filled
the court room. Mrs. Ada Blandy took the stand today as the witness in the trial of the divorce
sue instituted by her young husband, Thomas. Mrs. Thomas, known in Newark as Ada Blandy, is of medium height, pitifully thin and very looking. She entered in company with her mother, Mrs. Jeannette and the child in controversy.
The account of two letters now officially in evidence she was not allowed to testify. The husband was called and testified that he had known his wife in Kansas City four or five years before her first husband committed suicide. On the honeymoon in Arizona Mrs. Thomas became acquainted on several occasions. It was repeated in Cincinnati where they lived a flat during the alleged weeks taking of all her clothing
walking down two flights of stairs to the street entrance where she was caught by her husband and led back to the apartment. After testimony was read Thomas testified he left his wife here for a short while he went to New York and his return came into possession of indisputable proof that she had fitted the statutory offense, the evidence in support of this statement unprintable.

Chicago, March 18.—Mrs. Ada Blandy Thomas, the young woman whose wedding was spent in Newark, the years having lived on South Fourth that city, did not appear in yesterday but Mrs. Thomas is expected today to testify. She was not here yesterday.

For divorce is brought on the basis of desertion and other offenses. Mrs. Thomas in turn, has filed a counter-claim, accusing
her husband of offenses and she names
three women as co-respondents.
There was not much trouble
during the jury, the panel being called at noon as telegraphed to attend yesterday, there was a difference in the kind of men desired by complainant and defendant. The former wanted prominent married men in good standing their vocations. A colored man accused by the plaintiff, as was a bartender. The effort of the defendant to secure men well along in life.

Additional evidence has been filed in result Court in the form of deposi-taken in New York. The deposi-were those of General Samuel Thomas and his wife. Ann A. Thomas, sister of the complainant. The testimony was taken March 12 in the Court of General Thomas in New York.
Thomas testified that she did not know where her son Harold lived the fact that he was somewhere in Chicago.

Thomas testified to having met him at one time in Chicago when he was out of his shoes" and other nearly worn out. In his own General Thomas asserted his son left home at one time to
with a woman. He also asserted his son owned bonds valued at $6,000 at one time, but that he took them from him. A part of this was used in paying Harold's debts. He also denied the report that he had given his son $100,000.

a confession, went from a saloon in New York, where the crime was planned, to Riverside, N. J., intending to rob Washington Hunter, a farmer.
They attacked the old man who died
as a result of injuries received.

Is the Rebellion Becoming, Many Imperial Troops Attracted by Loot
Joining the Insurgents.

Hong Kong, March 18.—The rebellion in Kwang Si, Kwang Tung and Yunnan provinces is assuming a serious aspect. General Ma recently engaged the rebels at Fang Cheng. After two days' fighting Ma was compelled to retreat. The rebels captured Fang Cheng and established their headquarters there. They killed all the mandarins in the place and looted stores and houses.

Many of the imperial troops are joining the insurgents, being attracted by the loot.

The rebellion was started in Kwang
Si several weeks ago. The insurgents included in their manifesto, published at the time, the overthrow of the Man-

NOTE

ADDRESSING HIS FRIENDS AND ENEMIES ALIKE.

FOUND IN POCKET OF A MAN WHO TRIED TO KILL WIFE

BY DYNAMITING WIFE'S HOUSE.

Woman Badly Hurt but Baby Was Only Slightly Hurt—Mother-in-Law Injured Too.

Kansas City, Mo., March 18.—Edward Releford went to his wife's home yesterday afternoon, the couple not having lived together for some months and asked her to take him back. Miss Releford said she would not until he had stopped drinking. As she said this she was stirring some batter on the kitchen stove.

Releford picked up his baby, carried it into an adjoining room, put it on a chair, returned to the kitchen and dropped three dynamite cartridges over his wife's shoulder into the fire.
The explosion followed instantly. Mrs.
Releford was blown through the house. Her old mother, who had been in the kitchen was horribly cut by flying iron. The house took fire and Releford escaped in the confusion following. He was arrested later and on him a note was found expressing his intention of putting dynamite in the coals and taking his own life afterward.
It concludes with:

"To my friends and my enemies: Go
to H—L."

He was hurried to jail to escape a mob which had organized to deal out summary punishment.

Mrs. Releford cannot see, but it is not known whether her sight is permanently destroyed. The baby was injured slightly.

he learned of the couple's departure
he said emphatic things. He wanted to hire an engine to pursue the cou-

Cooling down, he swallowed his ire
and sent the following telegram:

"Jennie dear, come home, it is all

Burns Hearing.

New York, March 18.—In the preliminary examination of Florence
Burns for the murder of Walter Brooks
Thomas W. Brooks, father of the boy testified today to a conversation between the son and the defendant on December 8, 1901. When the Burns girl was stopping at the Brooks home,
she and Walter were talking in the parlor and he overheard Florence say:
"Walter, what do you intend to do? It's time we came to an understanding.
You ought to marry me." Walter replied, "Where are you going to live, in the street? The best thing for you to do is to secure employment."

Detectives Colby and Parker swore that girl when asked if she knew that

LEADING REPUBLICANS JOIN DEMOCRATS

IN OPPOSING SHIP SUBSIDY BILL
BUT IT PASSED.

NO LIMIT TO THE MILLIONS

Turned Loose—Allison Headed the Forces in Effort to Stop the Raid,
The Vote.

Washington, March 18.—Although the ship subsidy bill has passed the Senate and although it is the general belief that it will pass the House it has quietly been intimated that it will be well to postpone action until the next and short session of congress.
Many members of the House from the interior states for reasons of their own would rather not vote for the bill
until after the November elections.

Representative Grosvenor of Ohio
chairman of the House committee on merchant marine and fisheries, is an enthusiastic supporter of the bill and will bring it before his committee without delay. Whether the committee will report it at this or next session will depend entirely on the feeling of the House and the advice of the leaders.

Washington, March 18.—The Senatvoted to authorize the expenditure of untold millions during the next 18
years by passing the Hanna-Frye ship subsidy bill. The vote was 42 to 31.
Six Republicans voted with the Democrats and one Democrat with the Republicans. In the former class are Senators Allison, Dolliver, Spooner Quarles, Proctor and Dillingham. The Democrat who cut across party line
is McLaurin of South Carolina.

Senators Allison, Spooner and Proctor are as prominent and influential as there are on the Republican side and their opposition has given many Republicans doubts as to the wisdom of the subsidy bill.

Until 1908 no more than $5,000,000
may be spent in any one year on mail ships. Then until 1920, in which year the law is to expire, the limit is to be $8,000,000. The expenditure for mail ships may therefore be $129,000,000.
There is no limit on the amount that may be spent on freight ships.

Thirty-six votes were taken on the bill, an unprecedented number. Twenty of these were by yeas and nays.
Thirty-five were of amendments, of which only seven were adopted. The amendments put into the bill were those offered by Senator Allison, imposing the mail subsidies in the manner
already indicated and making the act
expire in 1920; by Senator Spooner reserving the right to Congress to amend or repeal the law without affecting any of the contracts that may be made; by Senator Hanna, providing that nothing in this act shall be construed as limiting the right of Americans to own or control foreign steamship companies; providing that no foreign-built ship shall receive any subsidy except as specifically provided in the bill, and finally that no more foreign-built ships be admitted to American registry.

One other amendment was adopted
while the bill was in the legislative stage of committee of the whole Senate. It was that offered by Senator Pettus limiting the expenditures to $9,000,000 a year. All the Republicans voted for it under the impression that it meant $9,000,000 a year for the freight-carrying ships. But upon consideration they found that it meant $9,000,000 a year for both mail and general subsidies. When they got the bill into the Senate they demanded a separate vote on it and killed it, so there is now no limit on what may be paid for freight subsidies.

War Not Over.

Southampton, March 18.—Major Gayeford, who is a member of General Lord Kitchener's staff in South Africa, in a letter received at his home
today, says:

"It is a cruel war the British press is holding out hopes that the war will be over by the coronation. We who are here realize that it will not end
inside of two years."

PATRICK TRIAL

Witnesses Try to Disprove Statement of Valet Jones—Defense Scores Heavily in Murder Case.

New York, March 18.—Lawyer Patrick's defense to the charge of murder is progressing smoothly. Miss Alice Potts, daughter of Patrick's friend, John R. Potts, testified that on September 23, 1900, the day of Rice's
death, she boarded at No. 316 West 58th street where Patrick also boarded. She was in the defendant's presence in the house that day from 3 until 6:30 p. m. and she was positive that no one called on him. This was a flat contradiction of Valet Jones' story that Patrick came out and met him in the street at 5 p. m. and gave him final directions about the murder.

Miss Mabel Elliott, who is a missionary student at Moody Institute, testified that on September 23, 1900, she and her mother boarded at No. 316 West 58th street. She saw Patrick at breakfast at 8:30. He was in the house when they came back from church at 12:30 p. m. After dinner she and her mother and Patrick went to the parlor, where Miss Elliott played and sang. This corroborates Valet Jones' story that when he called on Patrick at 2 p. m. that day, Patrick was in the front parlor with some ladies who were at the piano. Miss Elliott saw Patrick in the house continuously, she said, up to 7:20 p. m., when she and her mother went to a Christian Entelement meeting.

Morris Myers boldly declared on the witness stand that the will of June 30, 1900, which the prosecution and all its witnesses declare to be a forgery, is genuinely genuine. Myers was a clerk in Patrick's office. Under Mr. Osborne's cross-examination Myers made a stretched showing.

Scalp Torn Off.

Indianapolis, March 18.—Mrs. Josephine Stevens had her hair caught in he crank shaft at a laundry here yesterday and her scalp was torn off. She is a widow.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 18.—According to reports from Long Beach where Mayor Sam Jones of Toledo, is ill, his condition Monday night was less favorable than that of the previous night. He is suffering from neuritis.

PRINCE SLEPT

FOR MANY HOURS AFTER SAIL-ING FROM NEW YORK.

Great, Graciously, Cheerful Crowds in America Highly Impressed the Ka'ser's Brother Henry.

Calcutta, France, Mar 17.—Prince Henry says he was so tired that he finally boarded the Deutschland at New York that he slept almost continuously for 48 hours, except for the time he appeared for his meals or to take short walks on the bridge. He says he never worked so hard in his life as when he was in the United States, that he never changed his uniform so many times a day or faced a succession of situations requiring such alertness and a certain initiative on his own part. There were situations which could not be met with mere execution of a routine program.

While conversing with members of his suite, Prince Henry has alluded to many things in connection with his trip. He has mentioned nothing more, frequently than that no unpleasant incident occurred in the United States.

Impressions were crowded upon him too rapidly for proper appreciation at the moment, perhaps, but as Prince Henry himself said:

"We have accumulated material to think about for months to come."

When one of his party inquired what had impressed him most, the Prince replied that the great, orderly and cheerful crowds had been his most continuous impression, and would probably always be one of his most vivid recollections.

The Prince said he saw crowds outside of doors and indoors—faces of men and women, with here and there a powerful, a beautiful, or a spiritual face. He said his regret, if he dared to say he had any, was that he could not know some of these people better.

BOOM

OF SENATOR HANNA FROM OHIO, IS GROWING

MR. FORAKER TRIES TO LOOK
PLEASANT BUT IS SARCASTIC.

TO GET MR. ROOSEVELT'S SCALP

Seems to be the intention of the Hanna Fellows and There Promises to be a Lot of Fun.

Washington, March 18.—The thing
which Saturday indicated that Senator Hanna was about to become an active aspirant for the Presidential nomination, were really premonitory signs. The forebodingness which marked the campaign for the nomination of McKinley will characterize the canvass to be made for Hanna. It means that the machinery built up 7 years ago for McKinley by Hanna will be put into motion again.

When Harry M. Daugherty and Cyrus W. Huling started for Columbus
they let it be understood that, so far as they are concerned, Hanna can have the Ohio delegation. Daugherty is the leader of one of three factions into which the Ohio Republicans are divided.

Senator Foraker was with President Roosevelt yesterday. On his way out of the White House he was asked:

"How are you enjoying the Hanna
presidential boom?"

"We are delighted to have these honors come to our State. I understand he already has the delegation,"
was the reply.

Senator Foraker. It will be remembered, came out in a short interview
some time ago in favor of President Roosevelt for another term.

It is understood among the things arranged for opening and strengthening the Hanna boom in Ohio is the purchase of a leading newspaper in a city near the center of the State, and making it the organ of the Hanna
Presidential boom.

Mr. Hanna still refuses to talk on the subject when asked if he is a candidate. He has not authorized a denial.
The attention of President Roosevelt was called to the dispatches booming Mr. Hanna, and he expressed surprise and said he had not known of the ambition of the Ohio statesman
until his attention was called to it.

Town Correspondent Though He

RUSSIA

Declares a St. Petersburg Paper Today Will Enunciate a "Monroe Doctrine for Eastern Europe."

St. Petersburg, March 18.—Swet today declares that Russia will not allow America to compel Turkey to pay the ransom money exacted by the brigands for the release of Miss Stone,
the American missionary, nor will Russia tolerate any interference in her sphere of influence. Russia, the paper says, will enunciate a Monroe doctrine
for the east of Europe.

Washington, March 18.—The weather bureau announced the following
this morning:

middle and south Atlantic coast and low temperatures are general this morning east of the Rocky Mountains.
From the gulf states northward
through the lower lake region and middle Atlantic states they are 4 to 27 degrees below the seasonal average and are below the freezing point as far as central Alabama."

New Decatur, Ala., March 18.—A half an inch thick formed last night.
The mercury is 28 above zero this morning.

Painless Childbirth.

Zoe Phora the Only Safe, Sure and Ever Ready Remedy in the Three Danger Periods of Woman's Life.

It Carries Women Safely Through the Terrible Ordeal of Childbirth and Afterwards Restores the Organs to Strength and Vigor of Health.

TRIAL BOTTLE MAILED FREE.

The stern agony, the awful writhing pain of childbirth is known to every woman who is a mother who did not prepare for the terrible ordeal with Zoe Phora. With the use of Zoe Phora many women testify they find the labor of bearing children very easy, the pain almost nothing, and altogether a different life during confinement and the days preceding it.

MRS. EMMA DODSON, Jerseyville, Ill.

Mrs. Emma Dodson, of Jerseyville, Ill., says: "I have kept Zoe Phora in my house for twenty-one years, using it at monthly periods and preparatory to confinement. Before I used Zoe Phora I was very irregular and suffered terribly whenever I did menstruate, but by using it I became regular, and suffered very little. I have since said I had sooner go through childbirth without an attending physician than do without Zoe Phora previous to confinement. I have been the mother of five children. Before the first two came I had not heard of Zoe Phora, and suffered labor with one fifty hours before delivery. The last three births I used Zoe Phora during each pregnancy and was not in labor over four hours for any of them. I have now passed safely and comfortably through the critical time, called change of life. I suffered very little pain, because I used Zoe Phora. It is the best medicine for painful menstruation I have ever seen, and I have given it to several women, and have never known it to fail."

Zoe Phora has brought the sunshine of health into the home of many a despairing woman. It has made it possible for women to have children who never in the world could have stood the pain and suffering and laceration that must surely have followed the birth of a child in their old condition. The stories of some of the women who now praise this great medicine, Zoe Phora are truly wonderful. They tell of monthly pain and misery suffered for years. They tell of the impossibility of bearing a child for the reason that the organs were not strong enough to carry the child to the end of the time, but would miscarry, greatly endangering the life of the mother. Now they assert they have had children with scarcely a pain and with little inconvenience after the birth was over, few pains and no bad after effect.

Get a dollar bottle of Zoe Phora at the nearest drug store, or the Zoe Phora Co., Kalamazoo, Mich., will send it to you prepaid on receipt of price. It is no experiment as hundreds of grateful women testify daily. The doctor is always glad to answer questions. Do not hesitate to write for information. We will be glad to send you a large trial bottle free upon receipt of 10c. to cover postage and packing. Address, Zoe Phora Co., Kalamazoo, Mich.

FOUR NEWARK LADS

Who in Later Years Became Distinguished American Citizens.

One a Justice of the Supreme Court, Another a Major General, Third, U. S. Senator, Fourth, a Rear Admiral and Leading Lawyer—Bits of History Heretofore Unpublished—Letter From Hon. James Parker.

The following story, a true one, of early Newark and four of its famous men, one of whom became a justice of the United States Supreme Court, another a major general in the army, the third a United States Senator of note, and the last a rear admiral, and one of Admiral Schley's counsel in the recent court of inquiry, comes in the form of a personal letter received by Capt. Wm. H. Darlington of this city, from Hon. James Parker, attorney at Perth Amboy, New Jersey.

Mr. Parker, one of the famous quartette above referred to, was in Newark about three years ago, and when here met for the last time his old schoolmate, the late Wm. A. King. Mr. Parker hopes to visit Newark again during the present year. The following letter will be of interest not alone to those who know Mr. Parker either personally or by reputation, but to the great majority who are familiar with the names of Wm. B. Woods, Charles R. Woods, James Wilson, Phil H. Sheridan. The letter is dated at Perth Amboy, N. J., March 13:

One of the pleasant results of having been one of the counsel of Rear Admiral Schley, before the late court of inquiry, is that it has prompted you to write me your letter of November 26th last, by which you opened a flood of memories of "lang syne" when you and I were schoolmates. You say that it has "been reported in Newark that I was born there." Well, I was born there, on the 15th of June, 1832; and, although I have lived nearly to the allotted span of "three score years and ten," I have never ceased to feel a pride that I was born in the dear old town.

Except that I went to school, as a very small boy, to the Misses Reader, my only memory of my school days in Newark is of that little old building, that, until three or four years ago, stood behind the old First-Presbyterian church, and of a schoolmaster named Adair, whose hair stood up like that of General Jackson, and who frequently made our hair stand up in the same way, by the use of the rod and ferule. Oh! but the boys of today have a lovely time at school, compared with that time, when the maxim, "Spare the rod and spoil the child," was the rule, liberally employed, of boyish education.

That old "District School," as it was then called, was a remarkable one. All the boys and girls (within certain ages) of the town, then having some 1500 inhabitants, were its scholars. There was no other in the town.

While I was in it, there were on its rolls, four boys whose subsequent careers were remarkable.

One was William B. Woods, who became and died a Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. A second, his brother (Charles R.), I think was his name) who went to West Point Military Academy, and, after graduating thence with high honors, became a distinguished Major General of Volunteers in the Civil War. A third was James F. Wilson, who was then an apprentice to his uncle, a saddler.

"Jim Wilson," as we always called him, was the son of a carpenter, who was then dead, leaving Jim as the eldest of several children, but hardly anything for the widow and children to live on. Jim was the general champion of our smaller boys, against the larger ones, who might be disposed to bully us. He was in frequent conflict with the schoolmaster (Adair); and I can see him now standing with arms folded before the whole school while Adair wore out several apple switches on Jim's jacketless back, in the vain endeavor to make him cry out with either pain or confession of fault. We boys didn't have undershirts in those days.

Jim continued to exhibit his steady independence of character.

William B. Woods went off to the Western Reserve College, and after graduating there, came back to Newark, studied law with Samuel A. King, and after being admitted to the bar King took him into partnership, the firm being King & Woods.

One day he saw his old school fellow Jim Wilson, sitting in a room listening to the trial of a case in court.

Woods said to him: "Jim, you seem to take great interest in these legal proceedings."

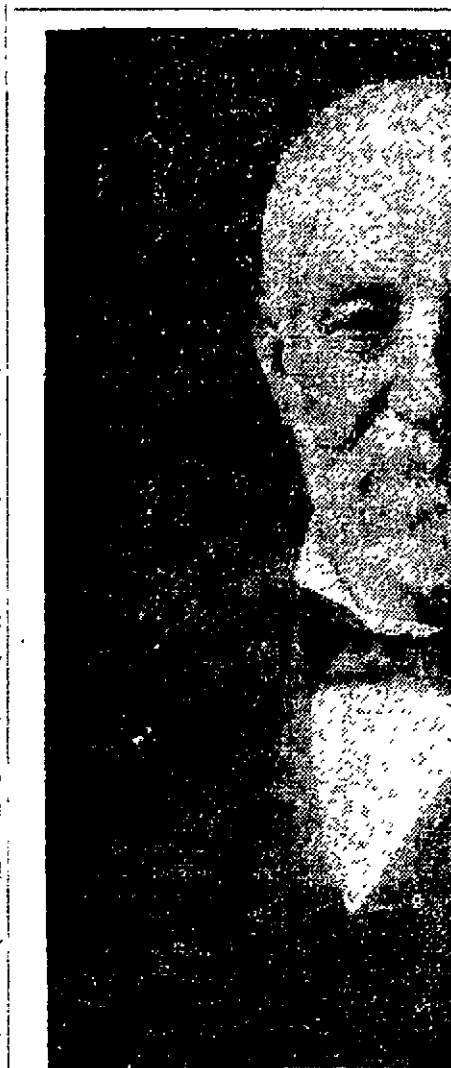

"Oh, Billy!" he replied, "the hope of my life is to become a lawyer."

"Well, that's a very simple matter; come into our office and we'll soon make a lawyer out of you."

"Oh, but I have to work nearly all my time, to help mother with the children."

"You can study at nights can't you? and if you will, that can be arranged."

"But I don't know anything, except what I have been able to pick up at the school here in the intervals when I could leave off work."

"Well, Jim, you seem so much in earnest, that I'll see how it can be managed."

So he made arrangements with one of the ministers in town to tutor Jim, and in time he graduated him as a lawyer. Jim then did (what all young men starting in life should do, viz: went and got married; his wife being one of our schoolfellows—Betty Jewett, I think, was her name—and then he took her out to Iowa, where they began their wedded life. He prospered; made fame and fortune, went into politics, was elected to Congress, and finally was elected to the Senate of the United States, and served two terms in that body. He was a most valuable man in all his public stations, was chairman of the House Committee on Judiciary, and a member of the same committee in the Senate; and was respected and trusted by all his associates in both parties. His health compelled him to decline further service in the Senate, and he soon died, full of honors. His country will enjoy the fruits of his wise counsels for generations to come.

William B. Woods, as you veterans know, though a partisan Democrat, went promptly into the army at the beginning of the civil war, served through it with credit, and became a Brigadier General of Volunteers. When he was mustered out he settled at Montgomery, Alabama, where he made a good reputation, and when the Federal courts in the Southern States were about to be re-established, he was appointed, largely through Mr. Wilson's influence as United States Circuit Judge, and when, later, a Justice of the Supreme Court was to be appointed, Wilson's efforts secured the appointment for him. "I had the pleasure," said Wilson to me, "of handing him his commissions to both these high offices, and thus repaying, in part, his kindness to me."

Jim Wilson never grew big enough to neglect to show that very uncommon virtue—gratitude, towards those who had befriended him. When I met him after forty years had passed since we had parted as school boys, he told me that he had thought of me only a few days before; and I can assure you that it was an unalloyed pleasure to go over our youthful memories—with the help of "Betty"—and the boys once more. Peace to his ashes!

The fourth of those boys was myself. My father moved his family over to Somerset—then the county seat of Perry county—on the first day of January, 1845. I was not thirteen years old at that time. In May, 1846, the Mexican war broke out, and he secured for me an appointment at West Point. I well remember the day the appointment arrived at the postoffice in Somerset. The mail route from the east was over the pike from Zanesville, and west to Lancaster. When the stage arrived at the outskirts of town the driver blew his horn, and everybody dropped his business and collected at the postoffice. Soon the coach, drawn by four magnificent horses reeking and steaming over their eight miles an hour drive, came, on a full lunge to the postoffice, the driver threw his reins right and left; the postmaster or his clerk grabbed the mail bag, which contained only letters—for newspapers were not then carried in the mails as now, turned it upside down on the floor of the postoffice, picked out the letters for Somerset, put the rest back in the bag and carried it out to the coach.

Meanwhile the "boot" of the coach had been searched for newspapers, which were hurriedly glanced over by groups; the relay of horses had been hitched up; the driver jumped to his seat, blew his horn, the small boys, dogs and pigs—for all were promiscuously plentiful in the streets—scattered as the coach with its horses on a full gallop, whirled away towards Lancaster, to have the same scene repeated at every postoffice on the route. The arrival of the mail was then the one event of the day. The mail that day brought to my father a large official envelope from the War Department. It had five big wax seals on the back, and as he proudly held it up to view it excited much awe, as did the "registered letter" among the inhabitants of the tenement house in which Bridget O'Flaherty (to whom it was addressed) lived.

My father's letter was opened carefully, and read aloud to his friends, who drew near; and I stood by, in proud expectation, when as the qualifications were read, it appeared that I was two years too young, and could not go. I remember that my father said to me, "You young boy, why weren't you born two years sooner?" and that I turned the laugh on him by the reply, "Because you didn't get married two years sooner."

That fall he got me appointed a midshipman in the Navy, and I went to the Naval School at Annapolis, in December, 1846.

In March, 1847, I was sent to sea in the old sailing sloop of war, Saratoga, of which vessel the late Admiral Faragut (then a commander) was the captain. She went down to the Gulf squadron (Commodore M. C. Perry); and I served in her during the remainder of the Mexican war. We saw no fighting, because the Mexicans had no navy, but we had the yellow fever going on board the ship, from May to December, which was more dangerous than many battles. In time I was returned to the Naval School (then displaced by the more pompous name of academy).

After a year's study, I graduated in June, 1852, as No. 2 of my class (as other Ohio boy being No. 1, Edwin O. Carnes, of Dayton), and was then sent out to the Mediterranean squadron, as one of the passer-midshipmen of the sloop of war St. Louis, under command of Commander Duncan N. Ingraham, and was an officer of that vessel when the release of one Martin Kosta, from an Austrian brig of war, the Huzzah, in the harbor of Smyrna, in 1853, whose officers had kidnapped him. That affair caused great excitement throughout the world, causing, to use an oratorical phrase then very commonly used in Fourth of July orations, "the tyrants of the old and effete monarchies of Europe, to tremble on their thrones," and establishing the principle, now unquestioned, that one who renounces the authority of the country of his birth, and declares his intention to become a citizen of the United States, is entitled to the protection of our flag.

Before I sailed on the St. Louis, I had the great good fortune to fall in love with a sweet Virginia girl, and she with me, and having returned at the end of three years as much in love as when I went away, she and I became engaged to be married; and then I resolved to resign my commission as Lieutenant, to which rank I had meanwhile been promoted, and did so; and then we went out to Cincinnati, where my parents resided, and having studied law in the office of the late Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, Hon. Salmon P. Chase, was admitted to the bar in April, 1857, and in June married, having nothing but her and my confidence in myself to begin life on. We have had a dozen children, and neither she nor they have ever lacked anything necessary to their comfort. She is still at my side, to bless and cheer me for the years to come.

When the civil war began, I promptly, almost the first, volunteered to resume my old place in the navy to help maintain the Union. My services were accepted; I was the first of the officers who had gone into civil life to be appointed an "acting lieutenant," and, in time, I was restored to the regular service, in my old place. I served with credit and some distinction through the war; was the senior officer of the naval assault in the battle of Fort Fisher, North Carolina, made on January 15th, 1865, and was recommended by Rear Admiral Porter for promotion to Commander for gallant conduct on that occasion. Events followed very fast, and no promotions were made.

When I was unable, because of my youth, to go to West Point (as I have related) my father looked about in Somerset for a boy to take the place; and he finally, after two years' coaxing persuaded a young Irish lad, whose parents were in very humble position, to go there.

I was telling this story to President Lincoln in March, 1865, at City Point. (I had then charge of the President as his convoy, he lying on board a steamboat called the River Queen); and I said to him: "Mr. President, you will appreciate the cause for gratitude this nation has that I was not born two years sooner than I was, because if I had been, that boy would never have been heard of, when I tell you his name. I never saw him again until I met him here the other day at the conference of generals; but he is out there at the front, and his name is Philip H. Sheridan."

The President jumped from his chair, grabbed me by both hands, and said to me: "Parker, I have just made a Major General out of him for that Winchester business; and I may have to make an Admiral out of you, before this unhappy business is over."

"Oh, Mr. President," replied I, "it's too late: when these armies move, it will bring the end of the rebellion."

And so it did; but the good old man whose heart never throbbed with a feeling of unkindness, did not live to see it, alas.

Later on, when Mr. Jefferson Davis was brought to Hampton Roads as a captive I was ordered to sail with him on board, for Fort Warren, Boston harbor, and deliver him there as a prisoner of war. I went on board to tell him of the orders; he grumbled at the earliness of the hour fixed for sailing. I said to him, "Mr. Davis, while I wish to be entirely courteous to you, you ought to know that I cannot argue with you about my orders, and can only obey them. I shall sail with you on board, at the appointed hour in the morning. You will please to be ready."

That evening, late, the orders were changed; and Mr. Davis was sent on shore, to be imprisoned in Fortress Monroe, and I lost the chance of having him in my cabin.

I am, thus, the only man in the United States who ever could say that

TEN YEARS YOUNGER.

A Happy Husband's Story.

"My wife," writes a fond husband, "looks ten years younger since she began to take Dr. Greene's Nervura. She was in a terrible condition. She began to be nervous several years ago. I did not notice it at first, but she gradually grew worse. After a little she could not sleep. She lost her appetite. Then she became irritable and morose, and from the sweetest and best tempered woman in the world she became shrewish and hysterical. Finally she began to fade away. You know there is a difference between women who grow old naturally and women who fade out from the effects of disease. I think I am as devoted and patient as any husband, but I must confess that my wife's unfortunate condition was a sore trial. I do not know what would have become of us if things had gone on as they were. The change for the better came suddenly. There was a complete transformation within a few days. Sound sleep and a hearty appetite came as nervousness and irritability went. I did not know what the matter was until she told me that she had been impressed by the sincerity and common sense of Dr. Greene's advertisements, and had been taking his Nervura. From misery and despondency she is now the happiest person in the world, with the possible exception of myself."

Dr. Greene's Nervura, THE GREAT BLOOD AND NERVE REMEDY.

Is the great health restorer. To suffering womanhood it is a priceless blessing. How sad is the sight of a fading woman! Who has not seen the sparkling eyes lose their lustre, the rosy and lilac tints fade from the cheeks, and elasticity of step and gracefulness of figure give way to repulsive haggishness? With departing beauty go sweetness of temper and charm of speech, and nothing is left of the sufferer but the ghastly contrast with her former self. The world would be gloomy indeed were there no light in this dark picture. Nature is forgiving. In Dr. Greene's Nervura she has founded a means by which women may regain their lost health and beauty, and assume their rightful positions in the spheres in which they move, as both ornaments and inspirations.

Dr. Greene's Nervura acts directly upon the nerves and blood, which are the life. Exhaustion, irritability, and moroseness are banished, and the circulation is strengthened and purified like a mountain stream. Dr. Greene is most happy when relieving the miseries of others, and if you feel the need of a wise counsellor, do not hesitate to call on or write to him. His advice is none the less valuable because it is free. Dr. Greene's office is at 101 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

he had both Presidents under his charge and keeping.

The next day, a man who is somewhat known to fame, was sent, with two others, on board my ship, the Maumee, for me to take to Fort Delaware, as prisoners. I did so. It is a part of the irony of fate that he, who, up to that time, had been doing all he could to trail the flag in the dust, should now be a Brigadier General in the regular army, on the retired list; while I, who had done my best to keep the flag waving high, am only a country lawyer. Of course you have divined that I am speaking of General Joe Wheeler. I am glad, for the country's sake, that he has been restored to the army list. We are good friends. I saw him in Washington a few weeks ago.

When the "civil war was over" I again resigned my commission as Lieutenant Commander in the Navy. If I had remained in the service, I would now be a Rear Admiral on the retired list.

This brings me to the moral of this long yarn. It shows what Ohio boys could do and be; and I'll defy any other little "district school," in or out of Ohio, such as that then was, to present a similar record. A Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States; a Major General in the Army; a United States Senator of high standing; and a Rear Admiral! Let anyone match it who can.

With regards to any others of our old school fellows who may be living in or about Newark, believe me,

Yours very truly,
JAMES PARKER.

Engineer—Deardurf, Steffe, Shaw.

They are at the present time in this city; out of which there would be an interest charge at the beginning of not to exceed the sum of $12,000 a year. This would leave the sum of $18,000 per year for expenses of maintenance and operation, which are estimated by the engineer at about $8,000 per year, leaving a surplus of $10,000 for the sinking fund to meet the payment of the bond issue from year to year, with the prospect of greater earnings as the consumers increase in number.

The estimated cost of the proposed plant is $300,000, and, under these conditions, we regard the expenditure of this sum of money for this purpose as a wise and judicious investment for the city.

Second. Should the City of Newark attempt to buy the present plant? On May 14th, 1885, the City Council of this city passed the water works ordinance, which is found on pages 149 to 156 of the Revised Ordinances of 1901. Section 12 of the ordinance provided that the contract with the Water Company should run 20 years from the completion of the works. The records of the City Council show substantially that the works were completed and accepted about the 1st of September, 1886, which would make the franchise of the present Water Company expire about the first of September, 1906.

Section 14 of that ordinance provided as follows: "The City of Newark shall have the right at any time after the expiration of ten years to purchase the said water works at an appraised valuation, which shall be ascertained by the estimate of three engineers, one to be selected by the City Council, one by the Water Works Company and these two to select the third; provided, that nothing shall be paid for the unexpired franchise of said company."

At the time this ordinance was passed and the contract made in accordance therewith, there was no statutory authority or power authorizing the City to purchase any existing water works plant, and this committee has legal advice to the effect that this section of the ordinance, providing for the purchase of the old plant by arbitration, is null and void for the reason stated, and that the City of Newark has now no power to compel the Water Company to fix the price by arbitration. That is, that the City cannot select an engineer, compel the Company to select an engineer, those two select a third, and compel the Company to sell at the valuation which they may fix.

On the 16th of April, 1890, the Legislature of Ohio did pass an act authorizing municipal corporations, in which water works had been constructed, to contract for the purchase of the same, upon such terms as might be agreed upon between the Council and the owners of the Water Works, which contract the statute provides must be ratified by a vote of the electors of the corporation.

Under this statute, the City of Newark has the right to purchase the existing plant, provided the Company and the Council can agree upon the terms and the price, and the electors of the city ratify it at an election held for that purpose. Under this statute the city cannot buy unless the Council and the Company can agree upon the terms.

On the 1st of September, 1885, The Newark, Ohio, Water Works Company authorized the issue of $225,000 of bonds and secured the same by a mortgage upon the plant, all of which bonds have been issued and are outstanding. On the 1st day of October, 1887, the same Company authorized an issue of $300,000 of bonds, and secured the same by a mortgage upon the plant. On the 1st day of October, 1891, said Company authorized an issue of $400,000 of bonds, and secured the same by a mortgage upon the plant. Each of these mortgages was made to The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of New York, making the total authorized issue of bonds $925,000. Of this latter sum, $388,000 of bonds, and no more, were actually negotiated and sold. The second and third mortgages for $300,000 and $400,000, respectively, were never issued.

We have received information that the City of Newark, within three years from the installation of the proposed plant, would receive a revenue of about the sum of $30,000 per year from water rates one-half of what they are at the present time in this city; out of which there would be an interest charge at the beginning of not to exceed the sum of $12,000 a year. This would leave the sum of $18,000 per year for expenses of maintenance and operation, which are estimated by the engineer at about $8,000 per year, leaving a surplus of $10,000 for the sinking fund to meet the payment of the bond issue from year to year, with the prospect of greater earnings as the consumers increase in number.

The estimated cost of the proposed plant is $300,000, and, under these conditions, we regard the expenditure of this sum of money for this purpose as a wise and judicious investment for the city.

Second. Should the City of Newark attempt to buy the present plant? On May 14th, 1885, the City Council of this city passed the water works ordinance, which is found on pages 149 to 156 of the Revised Ordinances of 1901. Section 12 of the ordinance provided that the contract with the Water Company should run 20 years from the completion of the works. The records of the City Council show substantially that the works were completed and accepted about the 1st of September, 1886, which would make the franchise of the present Water Company expire about the first of September, 1906.

Section 14 of that ordinance provided as follows: "The City of Newark shall have the right at any time after the expiration of ten years to purchase the said water works at an appraised valuation, which shall be ascertained by the estimate of three engineers, one to be selected by the City Council, one by the Water Works Company and these two to select the third; provided, that nothing shall be paid for the unexpired franchise of said company."

At the time this ordinance was passed and the contract made in accordance therewith, there was no statutory authority or power authorizing the City to purchase any existing water works plant, and this committee has legal advice to the effect that this section of the ordinance, providing for the purchase of the old plant by arbitration, is null and void for the reason stated, and that the City of Newark has now no power to compel the Water Company to fix the price by arbitration. That is, that the City cannot select an engineer, compel the Company to select an engineer, those two select a third, and compel the Company to sell at the valuation which they may fix.

On the 16th of April, 1890, the Legislature of Ohio did pass an act authorizing municipal corporations, in which water works had been constructed, to contract for the purchase of the same, upon such terms as might be agreed upon between the Council and the owners of the Water Works, which contract the statute provides must be ratified by a vote of the electors of the corporation.

SPECIAL WATER WORKS COMMITTEE'S FULL REPORT TO THE COUNCIL.

Heartily Favors City Ownership and Produces Surprisingly Convincing Figures—300 Towns in Ohio Have Water Works, Only 25 of Which are Private Companies—Legal Obstacles Against Purchasing the Old Plant—Points Out That Council Should Not Issue Bonds Within Two Years From Date or Withdraw the Proposition.

Newark, O., March 17, 1902.
To the Honorable City Council, of the City of Newark, Ohio.

On the third of March, your Honorable Body passed a resolution appointing the undersigned a Committee of Citizens to investigate the Water Works proposition, which your Honorable Body has submitted to the electors of the city upon which to vote at the coming election, and, in compliance with the terms of said resolution, your committee has, since that date, been engaged in an investigation of the subject, having studied it in its various phases and obtained information from the subject from all sources available to the committee and beg leave to submit the following report.

In view of the conclusions at which this committee has arrived, we do not deem it advisable to state all the facts which have induced us to these conclusions, but rather to confine ourselves to the conclusions themselves.

First. This committee heartily and unanimously recommends that the City of Newark, maintain and control its own system of water works, and is unalterably opposed to making any further contract for the supply of water with any firm, corporation or company whatever.

The information of this committee is that there are in Ohio today 300 cities equipped with water-works, of which number about 25 receive their supply by virtue of a contract and franchise with a private company, and the balance (about 275) own and operate their own plants. That the price of water furnished by the 25 franchise companies is invariably higher than the prices which prevail in cities which own and operate their own plants, the difference being, according to our information, about 50 per cent. In our opinion the City of Newark is, and for the last sixteen years has been, paying water rates which are 50 per cent. higher than our citizens would have to pay if the City of Newark owned and operated its own plant. Under judicious and business like management, we believe that the citizens would not only be supplied with water 50 per cent. cheaper than they have been paying, but that the plant would produce a revenue besides. We see no reason why the citizens of this city should not get the benefit of these reduced rates, and also the benefit of any profit which may be legitimately derived from such a public service.

The City Council of this city has purchased a tract of land lying north of the city which, in our judgment, is admirably suited for the location of the power house, supply of water, fuel, and the erection of its reservoir. This land was purchased at a low figure, and upon it is located what, in our judgment, is a superior source of water supply to that of the present plant.

The Council has secured the services of a skillful and competent engineer of vast experience in such business, whom this committee has interviewed, and from whom it has obtained valuable information. He has prepared plans and specifications for a system of water works, with a pipe-distribution which, in our judgment, is not only adequate for the present needs of the city, but sufficient for its probable growth for years to come. It involves a pipe-distribution of 45 miles, as against 27 or 28 miles at present in the old plant. It is designed to cover 129 streets which are not now reached by the present plant, and 415 hydrants, as against 270 which are distributed over the city at present. The reservoir, to be located on the summit of Horn's Hill, is of larger capacity than the present reservoir, and is substantially the same height or level above the city. The pumping engines specified are of the compound, condensing, Corliss type, and of a capacity of six million gallons a day, which machinery will work in a most economical manner.

We have received information that the City of Newark, within three years from the installation of the proposed plant, would receive a revenue of about the sum of $30,000 per year from water rates one-half of what they are at the present time in this city; out of which there would be an interest charge at the beginning of not to exceed the sum of $12,000 a year. This would leave the sum of $18,000 per year for expenses of maintenance and operation, which are estimated by the engineer at about $8,000 per year, leaving a surplus of $10,000 for the sinking fund to meet the payment of the bond issue from year to year, with the prospect of greater earnings as the consumers increase in number.

The estimated cost of the proposed plant is $300,000, and, under these conditions, we regard the expenditure of this sum of money for this purpose as a wise and judicious investment for the city.

Second. Should the City of Newark attempt to buy the present plant? On May 14th, 1885, the City Council of this city passed the water works ordinance, which is found on pages 149 to 156 of the Revised Ordinances of 1901. Section 12 of the ordinance provided that the contract with the Water Company should run 20 years from the completion of the works. The records of the City Council show substantially that the works were completed and accepted about the 1st of September, 1886, which would make the franchise of the present Water Company expire about the first of September, 1906.

Section 14 of that ordinance provided as follows: "The City of Newark shall have the right at any time after the expiration of ten years to purchase the said water works at an appraised valuation, which shall be ascertained by the estimate of three engineers, one to be selected by the City Council, one by the Water Works Company and these two to select the third; provided, that nothing shall be paid for the unexpired franchise of said company."

At the time this ordinance was passed and the contract made in accordance therewith, there was no statutory authority or power authorizing the City to purchase any existing water works plant, and this committee has legal advice to the effect that this section of the ordinance, providing for the purchase of the old plant by arbitration, is null and void for the reason stated, and that the City of Newark has now no power to compel the Water Company to fix the price by arbitration. That is, that the City cannot select an engineer, compel the Company to select an engineer, those two select a third, and compel the Company to sell at the valuation which they may fix.

On the 16th of April, 1890, the Legislature of Ohio did pass an act authorizing municipal corporations, in which water works had been constructed, to contract for the purchase of the same, upon such terms as might be agreed upon between the Council and the owners of the Water Works, which contract the statute provides must be ratified by a vote of the electors of the corporation.

Under this statute, the City of Newark has the right to purchase the existing plant, provided the Company and the Council can agree upon the terms and the price, and the electors of the city ratify it at an election held for that purpose. Under this statute the city cannot buy unless the Council and the Company can agree upon the terms.

On the 1st of September, 1885, The Newark, Ohio, Water Works Company authorized the issue of $225,000 of bonds and secured the same by a mortgage upon the plant, all of which bonds have been issued and are outstanding. On the 1st day of October, 1887, the same Company authorized an issue of $300,000 of bonds, and secured the same by a mortgage upon the plant. On the 1st day of October, 1891, said Company authorized an issue of $400,000 of bonds, and secured the same by a mortgage upon the plant. Each of these mortgages was made to The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of New York, making the total authorized issue of bonds $925,000. Of this latter sum, $388,000 of bonds, and no more, were actually negotiated and sold. The second and third mortgages for $300,000 and $400,000, respectively, were never issued.

We have received information that the City of Newark, within three years from the installation of the proposed plant, would receive a revenue of about the sum of $30,000 per year from water rates one-half of what they are at the present time in this city; out of which there would be an interest charge at the beginning of not to exceed the sum of $12,000 a year. This would leave the sum of $18,000 per year for expenses of maintenance and operation, which are estimated by the engineer at about $8,000 per year, leaving a surplus of $10,000 for the sinking fund to meet the payment of the bond issue from year to year, with the prospect of greater earnings as the consumers increase in number.

Under the terms of these mortgages, The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of New York, Trustee of the bondholders, has no authority to agree to a sale of the plant to the City of Newark. The Newark, Ohio, Water Company has the power, under the statute, to agree with the City Council upon a price, but would be required, in order to effect a sale to the city, to obtain valid releases of these mortgages, unless the bondholders would be willing to accept less than the full amount due.

It appears to the Committee that the obstacles in the way of obtaining a valid contract for the purchase of the old plant, and of obtaining the proper title to the property, are nearly if not quite insurmountable.

We are reliably informed that, in order to make the present plant cover the same territory and produce the same service as the proposed new plant, it would cost in the neighborhood of $100,000 to make the necessary extensions and alterations; and the old plant, so enlarged, could not be as economically conducted as the proposed new plant.

The Committee regards it as useless to expect that the old plant can be bought at a figure which, with the addition of the $100,000 just mentioned, would bring the price within the limits of the $300,000, which is the estimated cost of the proposed new system.

The old plant was constructed for the City as it was sixteen years ago. Since that date the City of Newark has grown in population and extent, and in the opinion of this committee, the old plant cannot be economically extended so as to meet the future needs of the city, without eventually a practical reconstruction.

For all these reasons this Committee is unanimously opposed to the purchase of the old system under any circumstances.

Third. Under the existing contract between the City of Newark and the present Water Company, that Company has the exclusive right and franchise to furnish water to the City and to the citizens until the 1st of September, 1906; and if the City of Newark should construct its own system of water works, and complete the same before that date, it would have no right to compete with the business of the old Company or interfere with its franchise to supply water to the city itself and to its citizens previous to the expiration of said contract.

The City of Newark, under its present contract with the Water Company, is paying a yearly hydrant rental of about $12,900, which amount it must continue to pay, with such increase as may result from additional hydrants in the meantime, until the expiration of the present franchise.

At the present time, the current prices of the materials entering into

LIFE'S SADDEST TRAGEDY.

Smitten Down on the Threshold When the Future Seemed Bright.

Who can estimate the importance of a life? When some bright and gifted young man is smitten down on the very threshold of life, who knows how great and irreparable is the loss the world has sustained? Who can tell how many brilliant discoveries in science, how many famous achievements in literature and art, how many splendid services to the world, have been snuffed in the bud by "death's untimely frost." Had Lincoln met his fate at twenty-one, or Grant died at West Point, the world had then no hint of the transcendent ability and commanding genius that have made their names immortal. The world, which credits what is done, is cold to all that might have been.

It takes a healthy brain and body to win in the great race of life. Invalids and those who depend on drugs for a stimulant seldom if ever, achieve greatness.

Health is easy to keep if we look well to our diet. Rational habits and good, wholesome food make brain and muscle, which men and women must have to win fame and fortune.

Men and women who desire to keep their bodies in a strong, healthy condition, and to grapple with the great problem of life, will be delighted with Malt-Nut, the brain, muscle and tissue building food. It contains four times the food elements of beef and furnishes just the elements of nutrition demanded by nature. Sold by leading grocers everywhere.

water works construction are unusually high, with the prospect that they will remain so for at least a period of one year from this date, or possibly longer.

Upon an issue of $300,000 of bonds, necessary to construct the proposed new plant, the City would be compelled to pay interest, at the beginning of about $12,000 a year from the date of the bond issue.

For these reasons, this Committee is unanimously of the opinion that the work of construction of the new water works plant by the City of Newark, should not be begun earlier than a period of two years from this date, which would leave ample time for the completion of the new plant before the expiration of the old franchise.

While we commend the wisdom and foresight of the present Council in its purchase of the land for water works purposes, and while we think advantage will accrue from the early agitation of the subject, yet it is the opinion of this Committee, that the passage of an ordinance for the issue of $300,000 worth of bonds, to be voted for at the coming election, is premature, for the following reasons:

We know of nothing that could prevent the City Council, in the event of a favorable vote upon the present proposition at the coming election, from proceeding immediately, or before the expiration of two years, above mentioned, to issue and sell the bonds and construct the new system, in which case the contracts for the construction of the new plant would of necessity be let at the prevailing high figures for materials, and the City would be required, between the bond issue and September 1st, 1906, to pay, in addition to the hydrant rentals to the old company of about $12,900 per year, and other necessary expenses of the plant, without being able to supply water to the citizens, or derive any revenue from the service, previous to the expiration of the present contract with the old Company. This interest charge of $12,000 per year, from the time the bonds are issued until the franchise of the old company expires, would fall upon the taxpayers generally, without any corresponding benefit.

If this Committee could be guaranteed that the issue of these $300,000 of bonds, and the construction of the new plant, would be delayed until two years from this date, it would heartily recommend that the voters vote in favor of this proposition at the coming election; but the Committee knows of no way that the Council could be prevented from proceeding at once with said work and issue said bonds, under the authority of a favorable vote on this proposition at the present time.

For this reason alone, we recommend that the Council withdraw this proposition, and that it be renewed as it is two years from now.

Respectfully submitted,

Dear Sir:

It is a well grounded fact, as the life insurance statisticians have proven that men who follow the sedentary and exacting business in which you are engaged, are subject to the more obstinate and persistent forms of Liver, Kidney, Blood and Nervous diseases. The strain under which you labor and your constant and confining work brings on at last a torpidity or inaction of the liver and kidneys, which can have but one result unless adequate means are used to counteract them.

Are you aware that you can devote your time to your accustomed business without risking these very serious consequences? Do you know that hundreds of men in your calling have regained perfect health and strength by the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy? C. M. Barnes, of Waterbury, Vt., writes us:

"I have suffered untold agony from kidney disease in its worst forms for years, and was obliged to give up my work entirely. I heard of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and since I began its use I have been able to return to my work. I have not been as well in years. I know of other cases where it has done great good."

Do you realize what this means to you and every other busy man whose overdevotion to his material interests has caused more or less physical break-down? If you would like to test the merits of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, we will gladly send you free by mail, enough for a trial.

The backing of people you know. Newark proof for Newark people. That's what follows here.

Surely no better backing can be had than the following statement from Mrs. B. Donahoe, 216 North Fifth st., who says: "For quite a long time my kidneys were much affected, and I had a heavy feeling across the lower part of my abdomen which made me miserable. Pain across the small of my back was often so acute that I was hardly able to move around and a distressing and annoying urinary weakness accompanied it. A friend of mine, who, by using Doan's Kidney Pills, had been cured of backache, advised me to try them. I took the advice and obtained a box at Crayton's drug store. First the kidneys were stimulated to a healthy and natural action, then the backache and general feeling of depression left me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBarn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

NERVOUSNESS

For It We Especially Recommend Vinol.

Why It Is So Highly Endorsed.

There is no need of our telling you that a nervous condition is serious. Those who are not nervous will not be interested in what we have to say.

Anyone who is so unfortunate, however, as not to be able to control their nerves, will realize that any advice that can be given to help them will be invaluable.

We want to impress upon our friends and neighbors in this city that Vinol, that great tonic reconstructer is one of the most wonderful nerve strengtheners that we have ever encountered. Incidentally we would like to mention the fact that anyone who is suffering from a depleted condition of any of the organs of the body ought not to lose sight of Vinol as a means to tone up the body in part or in whole.

We have had cases come to our observation where Vinol has been taken for nervousness with the most wonderful results. Indigestion, sleeplessness, headaches and various other ills that are all frequently a result of disordered nerves vanish when the nerves are reinvigorated. The following case is one which bears on this subject.

DUNKIRK, N. Y.—I cannot speak too highly of Vinol. For a long time I was a sufferer from nervousness. I had nervous dyspepsia. I tried many medicines but nothing did me as much good as Vinol. It strengthened my nerves and gave tone to my whole system. I urge anyone similarly afflicted to give Vinol a trial.

MRS. F. STEIGER.

Because of the good that Vinol has done in the past for nervous troubles do we feel so sure that there never has been a better general tonic offered to the public. We unhesitatingly offer to refund to anyone the price they pay for Vinol who after a fair trial is not satisfied.

FRANK D. HALL

DRUGGIST.

Concerning a Pardon.

(Communicated)

I learn from last Sunday's papers that on an application for the pardon of one Richard Tubbs, a federal prisoner in the South Dakota penitentiary was placed the following indorsement by President Roosevelt:

"Denied in my judgment those making this application, at least the Judge and the District Attorney, should be notified that I sincerely regret it is not within my power to materially increase the punishment of this scoundrel."

As I know nothing about the prisoner or the case against him, except that he was charged with defaming a woman's character through the United States mails, I do not pretend to say that he ought to be pardoned, but I do claim that when a petition for pardon is signed by the trial judge and the public prosecutor as well as numerous other officials and private citizens, it ought to receive a respectful answer, if not the most careful consideration, especially when the petitioners say they have grave doubts concerning the guilt of the prisoner and the sufficiency of the evidence on which he was convicted, which the Cincinnati Com-Tribune says was done by the petitioners in this case.

Furthermore, although I must assume that President Roosevelt acted in good conscience in refusing the pardon that was asked for, I can not help thinking that his officially expressed desire to increase the punishment of the prisoner was conceived in unrighteousness, not in righteousness or humanity. And when the President of the United States forgets the dignity of his office and seeks to humiliate and degrade a helpless prisoner by applying to him an opprobrious epithet, he sets an example which should be scrupulously avoided by every public official, high and low, under the sun.

To abuse a prisoner after this manner, no matter how grave his offense, may be in your eyes, savors more of unkindness and inhumanity than of mainly virtue on your part, Mr. President.

If Abraham Lincoln or William McKinley had been in President Roosevelt's place he might have refused to grant the pardon of this prisoner, but we feel certain that he would not have given the application such an indorsement as Mr. Roosevelt did.

President Roosevelt preaches the doctrine of "the strenuous life" to his countrymen very strenuously, and justifies it in a very strenuous manner before, but it is very strange that he wants to appropriate most of the strenuousness to himself. M. R. S.

Miss Elizabeth Hesselman, Treasurer of the Neenah, Wis., Schiller Club, Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Stopped Her Monthly Suffering and Improved Her General Health.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I was always a healthy girl until about a year ago when I caught a severe cold coming home from a party. For months after that I was very irregular and suffered severe pains for a day or two. I lost flesh and strength, and became alarmed. My mother procured a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and I began to take it faithfully. I soon found that my general health improved, and within a couple of months I became regular to a day, and suffered no further pain, and several of my friends have been helped through its use since."—ELIZABETH HESSELMAN, 129 First St., Neenah, Wis.

The Times-Democrat of New Orleans, says: "A thousand years hence no story will be followed with deeper feeling and greater interest by mankind than the one which tells the story of the life and death of Abraham Lincoln."

The Boston Journal says: "No record, though it contained every word uttered, could do Mr. Waterson justice. One must see the man. While he is an orator, on this occasion he is a man of the people, and his words are as idiomatic, not to say epigrammatic, and at times dramatic. He is a word painter, and as such can have no rival."

BASKET COMPANY SHARES at 50 CTS.

Truth About Recent Advances.— Reasons Why a Further Rise to and Beyond Par is Inevitable.

Shares in the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Company have advanced to 50 cts. (par value, $1.00 full paid and non-assessable.) The rise is due to popular appreciation of opportunity. Such opportunities usually go to a Syndicate of Capitalists.

This one has been offered direct to the public, and prompt advantage has been taken of it. It has become "THE PEOPLES' TRUST."

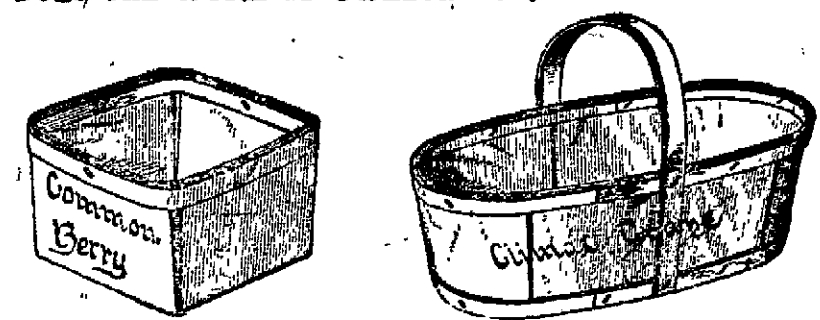

The proposition of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Company is one of automatic machine work as opposed to hand labor, and none of the noted labor-saving machines familiar to every one can compare in effectiveness and practical accomplishment with the basket-making machines which this Company owns and controls.

THE MERGENTHALER LINOTYPE, which does the work of four or five men, pays a steady dividend of twenty per cent on ten millions of capital.

THE HARVESTING MACHINES which cut the country's grain, require two horses and one man to do the work of six men, but these machines made the McCormick millions.

THE SEWING MACHINE, which works five times as fast as the seamstress, built palaces and supports whole townships with its earnings.

But the Basket-making Machines of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Company are so efficient and so perfectly automatic that with each of them ONE GIRL DOES THE WORK OF TWELVE MEN.

COMPANY CONTROLS ITS OWN FIELD.

In addition to the great saving of labor, which would commend these machines as an investment to every business man and every thinking person, there is the most important fact that the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Company will absolutely control the industry which employs the machines. IT WILL DO THE BUSINESS ITSELF. Its model factories will be set up on a scale commensurate with the growth of the Company's field of work, and will manufacture from raw material and deliver to the fruit grower every basket needed for the moving and marketing of every ounce of fruit produced.

IN THIS WAY the full control of prices, of product and of profit will be retained by the giant organization which represents the people, who are alive to the promise of a proposition stronger than any which has ever been offered to the public for popular subscription.

A proposition controlling an industry of which the present and immediate PROFITS ARE OVER $4,000,000 A YEAR, and the demand for fruit baskets of all kinds is increasing at the rate of 150,000,000 baskets a year.

Already there are six thousand shareholders in this great Corporation.

Already the plans of the Company are taking definite form in negotiations which are nearing completion and which, when announced, will drive the selling price of the shares higher and higher.

FACTS THAT COUNT.

The actual yearly demand exceeds Two Billion Baskets.
Value at wholesale, Eleven Million Dollars.
The net profit on this volume of business last year was $1,387,000.
The baskets were all made by hand.
Each Mergenthaler-Horton Company machine does the work of twelve men.
The saving in labor by the use of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machines amounts to more than TWO MILLION DOLLARS ANNUALLY.
This gives earnings for the company of OVER THREE MILLION DOLLARS HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS OR OVER THIRTY-THREE PER CENT ON THE ENTIRE CAPITAL ON THE PRESENT VOLUME OF BUSINESS.

The machines may be seen in operation at the Robison Basket Company's factory, Painesville, O., where over thirty are installed; at Elmira, N. Y., at the machine shops of Emmett Horton, one of the inventors, and at Sodas R. Y., where they are also in operation. The practical working of the machines is now shown in every office of the Company named below. The Company will not sell or lease its machines, but will equip and own and operate basket factories all over this country.

DOUBLING THEIR MONEY.

Follow the steps taken by the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Company and it will be seen that every step has been in exact accord with its announcements. Early shareholders now see their shares double in value. New subscribers will see their shares double in value, and still the limit of price for these shares will not be reached, because just as surely as the Linotype Machine pays its shareholders twenty per cent on ten millions of capital, JUST SO SURELY WILL THE AUTOMATIC BASKET-MAKING MACHINES WHICH SAVE THREE TIMES AS MUCH LABOR AS THE LINOTYPE, EARN DIVIDENDS WHICH WILL MAKE THE SHARES OF THE MERGENTHALER-HORTON BASKET MACHINE COMPANY SOUGHT FOR AT PRICES WHICH ARE BEYOND PRESENT COMPUTATION.

SHARE AND SHARE ALIKE.

All the stock of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Company is common stock. No person has any advantage over another person. There are no bonds, no debts no preferred stock. Every shareholder gets the same proportionate voice in the affairs of the Company, and the same proportionate profit out of its earnings. The Company is justly styled THE PEOPLES' TRUST.

Subscribers to the stock of the Mergenthaler-Horton Basket Machine Company may send or bring their subscriptions to any office of the Company. Checks, drafts, and money orders should be drawn to the order of CHARLES R. BARLOW, Treasurer. No subscription accepted for less than 50 shares.

THE REWARD OF MERIT

The snow was falling in feathery flakes and piling itself in great drifts and huge masses of white against the walls and outbuildings of Miss M.'s school for young ladies, a fashionable seminary in the town of N. It was the month of February, and as the end of the second term of the school year was drawing near the quarterly examinations were in progress. In one of the coziest apartments in the buildings six young ladies, all members of the art class, were assembled, busily engaged in conversation. It was a typical college girls' room. Photographs and souvenirs of various kinds decorated the walls and mantel, and a heterogeneous assortment of bric-a-brac was scattered here, there and everywhere. The latest magazine, with its leaves uncut, lay upon the center table. In one corner of the room stood an easel with an unfinished painting thereon, while charcoal drawings, pencil sketches and studies in still life gave mute evidence of the presence of the student. Amy Hildreth, the hostess, a bright faced girl of sixteen, was just now the central figure in the animated group. She was the daughter of a clergyman and one of the most popular girls in the school.

"I say it's a shame," cried Minnie May, a curly haired blond. "You're the most talented girl in the class, and to think of your having to leave now, without even a chance to try for the prize. You'd be sure to win it. The rest of us wouldn't have the ghost of an opportunity."

"Bess takes lessons simply for the name of the thing," said Lottie Moore. "Now, with me it's different. I expect to teach some day if I ever succeed in painting a rose which can be distinguished from a cabbage by any means except its color."

"As far as I am concerned," said Emma Brainard, a tall, stately looking girl with a profusion of wavy black hair framing her piquant face, "Minnie M.'s prize is perfectly safe. You know girls, I don't pretend to paint anything except miniatures. Should I ever become a celebrity in that line I shall tour Europe and paint all the crowned heads."

The prize referred to was a gold medal and a scholarship for the coming year, to be given for the best flower piece painted by any member of the art class after one year's course of lessons in the seminary. Amy's work up to this time had shown unusual excellence, and her talent, if opportunity to develop it were given, would without question have enabled her to take precedence of all the others, even those of the students who had had the advantage of previous study before entering the school for a special course. But a letter from her mother, received that very morning, had given her hopes in that direction a decided blow.

"You know, daughter," she had written, "your father's salary is not large, and I am really afraid we shall have to have you come home at the end of the term. If your board were the only thing, it would be a different matter, but the lessons are very expensive, and as it is not at all probable that painting will ever amount to anything more than a mere accomplishment I do not see my way clear just now to help you out, much as I would like to have you continue. It pains me to tell you this, for I know your heart is set on completing the course, but I see no other way unless something unexpected should happen."

"What's this, Amy? A valentine?" asked one of the girls, holding up a combination of painted flowers and satin ribbon which she had discovered among the collection of souvenirs on the mantel.

"Yes," said Amy, with a merry laugh. "And, by the way, tomorrow is the 14th. Suppose we each surprise our favorite teacher with a bunch of hothouse flowers. We can get them at Green's when we go out for our walk."

"Capital!" said Lottie. "I'll give a bunch of American Beauties to Miss Whitley. I think she is too sweet for anything."

"So do I," assented Minnie. "She's entirely too pretty to be buried in this poky little country town."

"I shall give mine to Miss Sue, the Latin teacher, and it will be like the valley," said Bess. "She always makes me think of a lily, she is so sweet and graceful."

"What about our town teacher, Miss Graves?" ventured Amy.

A general laugh arose.

"Her name is certainly suggestive," said one. "For instance, one might compose a couplet after this sort:

"Scraphina, I adore thee!
Take these flowers, I implore thee!"

"Where do you suppose she ever got that name? And she is so funny looking with those old fashioned little curls and her dainty, mincing steps."

"I don't think she is funny looking," said Amy. "I think her white curls are quaint, and then her work—why, it's simply grand! You know that painting in the reception room. The Ruins of Carthage? I heard one of the teachers say it took the first prize at the Paris exposition."

"Ruins of Carthage? Probably they had a personal sympathy for ancient ruins," suggested one.

"Had you lived in Pope's days, Amy," said Lilla Howard, "he never would have inquired, 'Why has not your microscope eye?' If you can detect any beauty in Miss Graves, the orb in question is certainly yours."

"She always looks so shabby," said Emma. "She never wears anything but that rusty old black dress. I must admit she is a good teacher, but she is so quick tempered. She gets red in the face if any one whispers or turns around and says something snappish and lateral. And then she always thinks every one is laughing at her."

"Well, perhaps she can't afford to dress any better," said Amy. "And while it is true she is not always pleasant, I imagine we might not show such angelic dispositions, ourselves, if we were placed in her position. But there goes the tea bell. We'll have to adjourn now."

"I will send her a valentine," thought Amy that evening as she laid away her books for the night. "I think Miss Graves has a hard time, and some of the girls don't treat her half way respectfully."

On the following day during exercise hour the six girls visited the village florist in a body and each secured her flowers. Amy's can be was a bunch of purple and yellow pansies. She tied them with a narrow satin ribbon, and, taking a blank card, she penned upon it the following lines:

"Could all my thoughts to pansies turn
Within the meadows of my heart,
Upon the purple field would burn
In golden bloom thy name, sweet Art."
"Your loving pupil, Amy."

Softly tapping at Miss Graves' door, which stood ajar, as she passed on her way to the class and receiving no response, she tossed the flowers in upon the counterpane of the bed, where they lay when the teacher returned to her room.

The day had been an unusually trying one, and Miss Graves was thoroughly tired out. Physically delicate she had always been, and to her sensitive disposition the little annoyances which daily beset her were almost unbearable. The giggling comments upon her peculiar name were well known to her. It was the name of a maiden aunt, long dead, whose fortune had been given her on condition that she adopt it. Her parents had died, leaving her an orphan at an early age, and with her aunt's money she had pursued her artistic studies and obtained there-

"PERHAPS SHE CAN'T AFFORD TO DRESS BETTER."

In the high degree of excellence which characterized her work. Disappointed in one whose friendship she had valued too highly, she had become bitter and suspicious of all humanity, and after a final effort the painting already referred to into which she had put all her soul (inspired, indeed, by the very thought so flippantly suggested by Amy's classmate) and whose success had not brought her the happiness she craved, she had sought to hide herself from every one by accepting the position she now occupied in the obscure town which contained the seminary.

As she sank wearily into a chair her eyes fell upon the bunch of pansies. As she picked them up and read the lines a look of astonishment overspread her face, succeeded by a glow of genuine pleasure. Amy was one of the few really polite pupils in the large class which she daily instructed, and the feeling which she had entertained for her was as nearly one of affection as she ever allowed herself to hold. She had been apprised that morning by one of the girls of Amy's expected departure, but had given it no thought at the time.

"Perhaps I have been too hard," she thought repentantly. "I know I am bitter and unforbearing. Of what use has Aunt Scraphina's money been to me? I have benefited nobody with the talent entrusted to my keeping—have refused to say 'Thy will be done.' And if they really do hate me, as I have often heard them say, I suppose it is my own fault. I will help this young girl if I can," she mentally resolved. "She may have a future before her."

Study hours were over, and the "inseparable six," as they styled themselves, were again assembled in Amy's room, when a knock came at the door, which was opened to admit a member of the junior department, the bearer of an envelope for "Miss Amy Hildreth from Miss Graves."

It contained a recited ballad for Amy's lessons for the remainder of the year. "For superior excellence shown in her studies,"

"Under not," quoted Amy solemnly, with tears in her eyes, "they looked at one another in repentant silence."

"I never will again," said Minnie May.

"Miss Graves is an artist," was the final and unanimous verdict.

I am glad to be able to record that Amy's picture, "A Study in Pansies," won the prize and also that she was later graduated from the art department of the seminary with the highest honors of her class, the assistance of her classmate, the assistance of her classmate, the assistance of her classmate.

opportunity rendered to her teacher developing between them a friendship which endured for many years.

THE BOY GIANT AS A SINGER

COPYRIGHT, 1900, BY CAROLINE WETHERELL

The giant believed he could sing,
And no one, from beggar to king,
When he practiced the scale
Dared to protest or quail,
Which was not such a singular thing.

But one day he practiced alone
In his dulcet calypso tone,
Nor noticed the thunder—
His voice was a wonder—
Till he'd swallowed a raging cyclone.

An Eskimo Concert.

In the depths of an arctic winter the Eskimos keep up their spirits by holding a concert every night. Their programme is not very varied, although both vocal and instrumental music are indulged in.

The single instrument used is a kind of tambourine made of a wooden hoop some thirty inches in diameter, across which wet deer skin is stretched.

But instead of thumping the skin it is the hoop that is beaten. Standing in the middle of the tent, the performer strikes the tambourine, turning slowly round all the time, while four or five women raise their voices in what they believe to be song.

The whole performance is the most horrible discord, but pleases where it is done. Each man in the company is expected to take his turn with the drum, which he whacks till he is tired.

Johnny's Explanation.

Mr. W.—Johnny, can you tell me why the little hand on my watch goes faster than the big one?

Johnny (after mature reflection)—Papa, isn't it for the same reason that I have to run when I go walking with you?—Exchange.

Advice to Boys.

Be thorough in the performance of every duty, says a writer to boys in Success. You will not take the world by storm all at once. You must begin at the bottom and work up. However trivial and unimportant the duties may be of the first positions to which you are appointed, perform them with scrupulous care and accuracy. It is not the character of the duties to which you will be assigned that is of importance, but the method in which you discharge them. Most distinguished men in our country who have lifted themselves to wealth and prominence bear testimony to the fact that the faithful performance of their work in every position which they occupied was the cause of their success. The young man who gives absolute satisfaction to his employer builds his own road to prosperity.

Troubles of Childhood.

What had her arithmetic lesson?—What is a quote?

Johnny—What you get by dividing one number by another.

I know the answer! Then why don't you ask the answer?

Johnny—Because that word's too easy to remember.

SNEAK THIEVES

TRIED TO STEAL FROM DOE'S MARION STORE.

While One Attempted to Attract Attention of Manager Another Tried to Steal.

(Marion Star.)

Two sneak thieves attempted to sneak a pair of trousers from the clothing store of Ed Doe & Company Friday evening at about 6 o'clock, but were frustrated by Manager John M. Cleary.

Two men came into the store and one asked to look at a pair of pants. Mr. Cleary waited upon him, and noticed that the other fellow remained in the front part of the store. While waiting upon his customer, Mr. Cleary kept an eye on the man in the front part of the room. The fellow, who remained next to the door quietly slipped a pair of trousers under his coat.

Mr. Cleary noticed his coat bulging and walking up to him, remarked that he did a pretty bad job. The fellow asked why, and Cleary opened up the coat and found the pair of trousers under it. The salesman asked him if he knew what he could do with him. The fellow replied that he did, and shaking hands with Mr. Cleary advanced the information that he was a good fellow. Mr. Cleary told him that he had long ago recognized that fact and invited the man to leave. The stranger did not go at once, but wringing Cleary's hand again told him that his customer was a stall and then both were asked to go before arrests were made.
